Making Room

Ideas worlds apart with differences clear
Similarity exposed in assigned partnership
Words bumped walls structural and soft
Built by the same consumer Odyssey

Opened minds swayed with vulnerability
Inclusion minus the racial reckoning
Marking more than time, was Room
For too long, space had been taken

Ideas unloved opened another door
Come. Come walk wild in gentrification
What you see is what I feel and is shared
All we need is Room

I would learn that Room was your gift
And remembering your antidote to apathy
As a backfiring car provokes an ancient response
No Temple needed

The blueprint is now squarely in focus
To create shelters for unhoused ideas
The foundation, walls, windows, and doors
Must have room
